Chapel Drive To Close At Queen's Ball Tonight

Loyola's Student Chapel Drive will be terminated by the Queen's Ball to be held at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel tonight. The dance will be held from nine to one and Johnny Moran will furnish the music.

The evening's activities will be highlighted by the announcement of the Chapel Drive results, and the installation of the new heads of the Student Council and Athletic Association.

Father Talbot To Attend

The Very Reverend Francis X. Talbot, S.J., President of Loyola College, will attend the dance and will personally install the new officers. Father Talbot will also act in his capacity as Faculty Chairman of the Chapel Drive.

The Queen's Ball Committee of the Junior Sodality, which is sponsoring the dance, has announced the young ladies that were chosen to serve on the Queen's Court. The winners, who were chosen by an impartial board of Georgetown students, are Miss Mary Jean Roche, Miss Joan Callis, Miss Patricia Guidera and Miss Doris Brown.

Dedicated To Blessed Virgin

The Queen's Ball is an annual event at which the Blessed Virgin presides as Queen. An altar will be erected in the main ballroom of the hotel and a statue of the Blessed Virgin will be placed on it. The statue was donated to the Junior Sodality by the Ave Maria Studios.

All profits from the donations to the dance will be given to the Chapel Drive. The decision to merge the Chapel Drive activity with that of the Sodality was made by the committees of the two groups.

83 Seniors Make Manresa Retreat

Eighty-three Catholic members of the Senior Class returned from Manresa yesterday after making a three-day Retreat. They arrived at Manresa at 6:00 p.m. Monday evening after having started the Graduate Record Examinations.

The Rev. Dennis Comey, S.J., conducted the retreat. The schedule consisted of Mass every morning, four sermons during the day, meditation, recitation of the Rosary and evening prayers.

Evening School Adds Course

The Loyola College Evening School will offer a non-credit workshop in Fundamental Journalism in the Spring Term, beginning Monday, May 24, and ending Wednesday, July 14.

This course, which will be conducted by Mr. Paul T. Broderick, Assistant City Editor of the Baltimore Evening Sun, is designed to instruct student journalists in the organization of newspapers and other publications. Classes will be held on management and mechanical setup of a newspaper plant, introductory police reporting, and news and feature writing.

There will also be practice in copy reading, art and picture layouts, human-interest stories, sports articles and editorials. The final topic of the workshop will be the legal and policy aspects of a newspaper.

Marelyn Satire Set For May 24

"Marelyn" rehearsals and publicity have moved into high gear in the past two weeks, and the original Loyola musical is beginning to shape up, according to George Herman, student composer and co-director of the forthcoming play.

"Some of the scenes even look good to me," Herman went on to say, "and the music, with Mr. Iula and an octet nucleus, really sounds professional."

Daily Rehearsals

The story continuity has been under the direction of Mr. William M. J. Driscoll, S.J., the show's producer and moderator of the Dramatic Society. Mr. Driscoll has been holding daily rehearsals with Bob Custer and Dick Coleman, and claims that "Yardley" and "Small Change" are more than adequate in their roles.

Mr. James Perrott, together with Don Swartz and George Herman, is doing the rest of the direction. The thirteen individual scenes are being practiced separately and the next two weeks will see them woven into a comprehensive whole.

Custer Plays Yardley

The cast includes: Robert Custer as Yardley; Richard Coleman playing himself; William Mullikin doing all of the comic songs; Spencer Davidson as Archihu, the assistant dean and Smitty; Tom Padden as Captain Fleet, a political boss and the bartender in the Ocean City scene; James Norris as Ugwump, Whistler, and a girl in Ocean City; Robert DeLisle as Lord Calvert, a sailor, and a poker player in Ocean City.

ASN Names Seven Students

Seven students have been nominated for membership in Alpha Sigma Nu, National Jesuit Honor Fraternity. J. Allan Panuska, president of the Loyola Chapter, announced that the names have been submitted to the Dean for approval.

Following his approval, the names will be made public. Requirements for admission are scholarship, loyalty and service. Those eligible for nomination were members of the classes which will be graduated by July, 1949.

A special inauguration banquet will be held in honor of the new members at the end of May.

800 Students Vote In Race

E. Clinton Bamberger, a member of the May '49 class, won the election for President of the Student Body held last Monday. Raymond C. Wittelsberger was elected President of the Athletic Association.

Bamberger pulled away from the other three candidates in the contest, amassing 311 votes. The second candidate was Robert S. Custer with 192. Francis X. Gallagher totalled 176 votes and Hector DiNardo received 121.

The race for President of the Athletic Association was a landslide for Wittelsberger, who received 413 votes. In second place was Mickey Parr with 183. Andy O'Donnell received 136 votes, Lou Roche had 44 and Stu Galloway had 26.

Said Bamberger, when informed of his victory: "I wish to thank the student body for their vote of confidence. Now I ask that you continue your interest in the affairs of Loyola by cooperating with the Student Council throughout the coming year."

Wittelsberger stated: "I am both proud and honored to have been chosen to serve you throughout the coming year. I am at your service as a representative of the student body. I will welcome any suggestions or improvements."

Daily Devotions Scheduled For May

May devotions will be combined with the regular First Friday services this morning. They will continue throughout May and will be held every school day at 12:25.

Devotions consist of a hymn, a short talk by a Senior, the recitation of a litany and finally another hymn. During the examination week of May 17, devotions will be changed to 10:50 a.m.

The list of Seniors assigned to talk is posted on the Student Chapel Bulletin Board.

Glee Club Plans Concert In Annapolis Next Friday

The Glee Club participated in the spirited Chapel Rally which took place in the gym on Thursday, April 29. They gave their rendition of "Dry Bones" and "Alma Mater."

Loyola's Glee Club will present a concert at St. Mary's in Annapolis on May 14. The organization recently visited St. Mary's Orphanage in Baltimore on April 29 and presented a program to the children there.

The Club is planning a banquet which will be held on May 29. This final activity will close the Glee Club's most active year in the history of Loyola.

Presented Concert On April 8

The choral group presented their first annual Spring Concert on April 8 at the Alcazar. A record crowd of 800 attended the presentation. Mr. Felice Iula is the director of the organization and William Yannuzzi was the accompanist. Solo parts have been taken by Albert Fitzgerald, president of the club; Niles E. Fields, Jr., and John J. McWilliams. Edward J. Waring is the violinist for the group.

An octet visited St. Mary's Orphanage in place of the entire club. The members who made the trip were chosen by Mr. Iula.

To Visit Jenkins Hospital

The same program will be presented at the Jenkins Memorial Hospital in June that was given at the Alcazar. It is also expected that the Club will sing on WBAL later in the season.

The organization also received an invitation from the Atlantic Conference of Associated Glee Clubs of America. This offer could not be accepted because of examination week.

206 Delegates Attend NFCCS Convention

(The following story was written by Eugene Corrigan who represented Loyola College at the Convention last month in Philadelphia.)

The fifth national congress of the National Federation of Catholic College Students convened April 22. Philadelphia was the focal point for the 206 delegates and the many observers, alternates and faculty members who attended from the four corners of the U. S. A.

The most sensational developments to come from this convention were public resolutions opposing U. M. T., favoring a specified Selective Service (which would abolish discrimination practices, improve the officer commissioning and court martial systems of the army) and others approving the report, in part, of the Committee on Higher Education, the Civil Rights proposal before Congress, and the work of the U. N. Human Rights Commission and UNESCO.

Delegates from the 150 member colleges, representing 175,000 students, came from as far as Loyola of Los Angeles. Besides introducing and voting upon the above resolutions they planned how to interest all the Catholic Students in the country in the NFCCS. They also elected a new slate of officers headed by Charles Hogan of Xavier University in Cincinnati, who will direct the activities of this, the only church-recognized union of Catholic Students in the country.

Reports were heard from the Federation's U. N. observer, (John O'Leary of Manhattan College), the delegate from the NFCCS to the official international student organization, the Pax Romana (James Dougherty, past national president, St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia), and from the Congress theme committee.

The Great Game of Politics

It was an apt remark that Jim Farley made after listening to the long list of Loyola grads who had attained positions of eminence with city and state administrations. "Loyola must have a special course in practical politics," quipped Farley.

Last week, he would have probably awarded gold-plated democratic donkeys to the six Loyola students who engineered a "free and unfettered" Math Club election.

It seems that six idle gentlemen were standing outside Room 2S when they heard rumors of an election there. They casually strolled in, took seats and announced that they had come to join.

Mr. Dawkins, the genial maestro of the Cipher Clique, was dumbfounded by the sudden rush on his little group. But he was not displeased—not for a few minutes at least.

The president called for nominations from the floor. There followed a puff of conversation, a flare of parliamentary procedure and a tumultuous tumbling of incumbent heads.

When the smoke had cleared away, the new officers, three in number, shook hands and congratulated each other. They had good reason to do so. Not one of them had ever been to a Math Club meeting before and two of them had flunked out of the Calculus course. It seems that the half dozen really applied their practical politics.

It's A Man's Sport Now

Whether it was by intention or accident is unknown, but somehow the results of a set of chess games actually appeared in the Sports Section of last Sunday Morning's Sun.

Perhaps the Publisher of the paper is a Chess enthusiast and the Sports Editor wants a raise. Perhaps the Sports Editor is trying to belittle the game. These things I do not know.

However I do believe that the headline editor could have done a little better job. A head of the following type would have attracted more attention, I believe:

New Bill Before Congress Will Give More Bread To Musicians

by Larry Davis

Rejoice, Ye depressed disc-spinners, for new tools of your trade are forthcoming. As a result of several meetings with both artists and record and radio industry bosses, Rep. Carroll D. Kearns, Pennsylvania Republican, has prepared a bill which will change the copyright law to grant a fair return to the musician for leaving evidence of his genius for posterity.

The bill, which has probably been passed by now, permits the musicians a collection of royalties each time a record is played commercially. Payments probably will be made directly to leaders who, in turn, will pass along the money to the A. F. M. welfare fund. Under this plan there will be two categories of records: those stamped "For home use only" and those stamped "For Commercial use only."

The Welfare Fund provides periodic salaries to musicians and their families who are unable to find jobs as a result of increased use of records. Up to this time the fund has been too inadequate to do the proper job, but with the record royalties increasing the fund receipts, it should be a great help to musicians in a business which fluctuates as much as theirs.

Since royalties were James C. Petrillo's biggest gripe, there is little doubt that he will end the ban on recording and please just about everyone except the League of Juke-box Haters.

Braintrusts Refuse To Take Honor Cards

Never let it be said that Loyola men aren't modest. So modest are sixty-three of the intelligentsia that they simply refuse to go to the Dean's Office to pick up their honor cards.

The honor cards, which are awarded to those students who obtain an average of at least 95% in a subject, are gathering thick dust while sitting in the Dean's Office waiting to be clutched in the hands of their rightful owners.

The Critilog

by George Herman

One of the joyous pictures to come out of Hollywood in a long time is Sitting Pretty which is currently doing just that in the nation's box offices. Raised from the average to the very good by the performance of Clifton Webb who plays Belvedere as though it was the best role he's had in years, it is full of fun and just plain ordinary entertainment—which is a novelty.

Maureen O'Hara is still unconvincing as anyone except possibly Maureen O'Hara. Robert Young acts the role of the father as though he realized Mr. Webb had the best deal and threw in his hand. The screenplay by F. Hugh Herbert is in his usual jovial style which has never yet failed to please the public—despite the panning of his recent show, Love Nor Money.

The Abbott-Costello duo perform as usual in The Noose Hangs High, but the smell still comes down to us. We are going to see a plague of comedians-in-semi-cowboy-pictures soon. Hope is next in The Paleface, with some rodeo cowgirl.

If you love your girl, don't say, "Come wiz me to zee Casbah." In the picture of that name, Pepe Le Moko is revived minus his old charm to play second base to Yvonne DeCarlo who is still suffering from talking-camelitis. Peter Lorre gives the "dead" picture a whimsical touch. Marta Toren seems a promising screen player—someday.

The Big Clock, on the other hand, was superbly directed by John Farrow and extremely well acted by Ray Milland and Charles Laughton whose sneer is the biggest money maker in villany. Elsa Lancaster adds a superb performance as a slightly maniac artist.

A product of excellent casting can be seen in State of the Union under the direction of the famed Frank Capra who revives his old More the Merrier touch to show Spencer Tracy, Katherine Hepburn and Van Johnson how to talk like politicians and newsmen. The result is one of the best shows of the year.

LETTERS

28 March, 1948

Dear Mr. Driscoll,

I thought that you would like to know that the following resolution was passed unanimously by the Society, at a crowded meeting held soon after our return to Oxford, and on the occasion of the Presidential debate.

"That this House wished to express its heartfelt appreciation and thanks to all those who extended their generous hospitality to the Union debaters during their recent visit to the U. S. A., and Canada; and looks forward eagerly to welcoming debating teams from those countries in the near future."

And with this comes all our own personal good wishes and thanks. Please remember us to the debaters.

Anthony Wedgwood Benn

Thank you for the kindness and the hospitality which almost overshadowed the debate.

Kenneth Harris

It was a wonderful day that you arranged for us. Very many thanks.

Broken Promise

During the heated days of the last war, the people of the United States were being bombarded with literature and motion pictures which portrayed vividly the great sense of responsibility which the boys fighting overseas had acquired.

The public was led to expect that those boys had been transformed into thinking men and that when they returned home they would right many wrongs which had been accepted too placidly for so long.

Of course, the returned veterans would take a greater interest in the vote. Reform would run rampant. Things would change!

Where were these Galahads of the Ballot on May 3? How many of the Loyola veterans bothered to vote in the primary—the election which really decided the winners in Maryland. Witness the light vote. This was the perfect setup for the machines.

Had the veterans voted in the numbers which were at their disposal, they could have changed the final tabulations.

And yet, all can remember well those resolutions made in other lands to better things in our own land. Could it be that these resolutions, like so many millions of New Year resolutions, were nothing more than products of zealous spirit but weak wills.

Student Elections

No national presidential election was ever carried on with more speechmaking, private discussion or inspired publicity campaigns than the campus election last week in which the student body voted in a new President and a President of the Athletic Association.

Because of the intense interest which they aroused by their campaigning, the also-rans deserve to be congratulated together with the two successful candidates who emerged victorious when the smoke had cleared and the ballots had been counted.

There were laughs to be sure in some of the posters and comic strips that covered all available bulletin boards and vacant walls, but there were some excellent platforms mapped out as well. Perhaps some of the candidates made a few promises they could not possibly have kept if elected, but in the main the issues were good ones.

"Schools is to be here?" What was that about culture?

Those who, never having witnessed such spirited campaigning in other colleges, criticized the large amount of time and energy devoted to a mere student election should remember the Rector's inaugural address, in which he outlined Loyola's role in the community.

Perhaps campus elections, as a sort of political kindergarten, are responsible for the participation by so large a group of Loyola alumni in the political life of Baltimore and Maryland. Perhaps they also help to make Loyola graduates as a whole, aware of their duties as citizens of the community.

Take A Bow

Loyola has been so basking in sunlight of glory in the last week that the people of Baltimore are beginning to wonder just what is going on at the "little" College on Charles Street.

Eight radio programs and one television show have brought Loyola into every home in the City during the last six days. It is most fortunate that the Advertising Club of Baltimore decided to dedicate its annual Education Week to Loyola.

However, it can be said without fear of contradiction that Loyola College deserves all the publicity and praise which it is being accorded.

Certainly it has contributed substantially to the welfare of the community by consistently educating men in the highest tenets of moral living over a long period of years. It has quietly performed a task of greatest value as year after year its sons have gone forth to administer the government of the city and state, participated in the civic life and upheld the responsibilities and duties of society.

The thinking people of Baltimore and Maryland realized long ago how great was the contribution of Loyola College to the general welfare. In more recent times, this fact has become more evident. Today, it can be said that the value of Loyola is being recognized on all sides by more people than ever before.

Loyola will be looked to more often to furnish the support and strength which it has given in the past. Her sons must be ready to present that calibre of backing for which they have become known.

Rome saw the sun set on an empire which wallowed in the satisfaction of the status quo. There is a lesson for Loyola.

It is a good thing to glory in the accomplishments of the past but it is a far better thing to build more statelier mansions for the future.

LIBRARY

The Library Department of Loyola College has added to its shelves more than fifteen hundred volumes since the termination of the 1947 Spring Term.

Some of the more noteworthy additions have been "Amiable Autocrat" by Eleanor M. Tilton, "Ben Hur Wallace" by Irving McKee, and "Moscow 1979" by Erik and Christiane Von Keuhnelt-Leddihn.

The library has concentrated on the addition of modern language textbooks and reference material because of the plan to introduce a language major.

The Department issued a list of the additions. This list was broken down under the headings of General Works, Philosophy, Religion, Social Sciences, Languages, Science, Applied Science, Fine Arts, and History.

Many of the volumes were encyclopedias and reference material. One of the more timely books was entitled "The Care And Repair of Books." The Librarians expressed the hope that more of the students would familiarize themselves with this work.

Under the heading of Fine Arts, one of the more popular books is "Championship Football." It may be found in the section with "Historical Greek Coins."

Running With The Hounds

Zedalis, Semesky Starring; Cronin Best Of Golfers

by Don Fay, Sports Editor

Odds and ends, here and there, caught on the fly, or call it what you will . . .

Frank Scrivener has played the tennis that put him in the number one slot on the varsity tennis team. Frank is unbeaten at this writing. And speaking of unbeaten streaks, take a look at Jim Lacy's unsevered string that goes back to the beginning of the 1947 season.

Nick Kropfelder, who led all scorers in the American Soccer League while a member of the Baltimore Americans, and Bill Linz, stand-out player and captain of the Greyhounds last fall, are both on the tryout list for the Olympic squad. They've been going through stiff paces during the last month in preparation.

Mike Zedalis is the most consistent baseball player on whom Lefty Reitz can call. The popular redhead, first string catcher and fifth place batter, has swatted the ball at a .400 clip up to this point.

Don Semesky, who has assumed the first base duties on the varsity nine, is a sweet fielder with that mit. Semesky is the graceful, picture player, and if he can keep up the hitting end, he won't be dislodged.

Jack Cronin, the best of the golfers, always in the low seventies and the rest of Father Herlihy's squad are stroking toward another Mason-Dixon crown, it seems. Mel Beeler, John Bailey, Tom Gisriel, Len Saltysiak, Bill Davis, Nemo Haslbeck, all consistent golfers, are the reasons why.

Bill McElroy is justly proud of his team's showing in the recent Penn Relays in Philadelphia. The mile relay team, that's Charley Kimmel, Tom Maskell, John Brunk and Jim Kaufman, finished third in the Mason-Dixon run. Each of the runners received a medal.

Intramural Event Carded

Highly regarded Alan Meehan of Loyola will be watched with interest, as will St. Joe's Frank Rehak and other stars. A real battle is anticipated in the mile event among St. Joe's Browning, Valeris from City and Towson Catholic's Connolly.

Greyhounds Smash Out 19 Hits In 21-10 Trouncing

Western Maryland slugged out eleven hits and ten runs off the offerings of Dick Farace last Friday afternoon in a Mason-Dixon Conference baseball game at Westminster, Md., but the Terrors never were in the ball game.

Farace and his mates were having a field day at the plate, battering out nineteen hits, including four doubles, a triple and two home runs by Tom Lind and Mike Zedalis. All this added up to 21 runs, and sufficient margin of victory over the home team.

This 21-10 ball game saw ninety-one batters stroll to the plate during nearly three hours of action. Twenty-eight players, fifteen for Western Maryland, participated.

Right fielder Johnny Boone was the hitting hero for the winners, batting out four safeties, including a double and a triple. Jack Whalen and Bill Tucker collected three hits each.

Loyola coupled spurts of two, five and one runs in the first three innings to jump to a 8-0 lead before the home team scored. Two innings later, the Hounds smashed out nine runs to sew up the ball game. After that, it was all anticlimax. Despite a mild comeback by the Terrors, that 17-2 lead was insurmountable.

LaSalle, St. Joe Win In Baseball

Loyola's varsity baseball team suffered a pair of defeats at the hands of St. Joseph's College and LaSalle in their recent trip to the Philadelphia area. Scores were 7-4 in favor of St. Joe, and 4-3 with the Explorers ahead.

The Hounds outhit St. Joe, 9-5, in their tilt, but Dick Farace issued nine walks to cause much of the damage. Loyola led, 4-3, until rallies in the seventh and eighth innings produced four runs and victory for the hosts.

McCabe Wins

Lefty Jim McCabe, who has somewhat of a jinx over the Greyhounds (this being the third time he has beaten Loyola) broke up a 4-4 ball game in the eighth with a double.

In the LaSalle game, Loyola made a two-run rally in the eighth inning but fell short by one run, as the Explorers won the 4-3 decision. Charley Sybert pitched for the visitors, and was opposed by Dick Adair, who was in complete control through seven innings, allowing the Hounds only two hits.

Hounds Score Two

In the eighth, however, Don Semesky and Bill Tucker singled, Johnny Boone was safe on a fielder's choice, and Mike Zedalis got a one-baser to tally Semesky and Tucker.

Adair was yanked, Leon Stallings went in, and put out the fire despite hard hit drives by Jack Whalen and Ben Spurrier.

Tommy Lind and Zedalis got three hits each in the two contests to rate first in the hitting department.

The Line-Up

Dick Farace Standout Pitcher; Gerry Kimmitt Sparks Trackmen

(This is another in a series of articles on outstanding Loyola athletes.)

Dick Farace

When Dick Farace walked off the pitcher's mound with a three-hit victory against Catholic University on April 10, it meant more to Loyola baseball followers than just a well pitched ball game.

It meant the release of a pentup anxiety that had been clouding the diamond issue all winter.

During the heart of the intramural football campaign, last fall, Farace, who was the Greyhound's leading hurler of 1947, with a 6 and 3 won-lost record, incurred a nasty shoulder separation on his pitching arm. With so much depending on the efficiency of that ailing flipper, it was hopefully nursed along through the succeeding months, and those efforts have been rewarded.

Big Factor In Title

The big right hander was an instrumental factor in the Mason-Dixon Championship drive of Lefty Reitz's diamond forces in 1947, which was the youngster's Freshman year. His best job was a five hit shutout over a non-league foe, LaSalle.

Thus far, in the '48 campaign, Farace has broken even with two wins and a loss.

Much of Dick's development can be traced to the patient work of Loyola High School's veteran coach, George Helfrich, who had the 20-year-old husky on his varsity for three years.

Made All-Maryland Nine

He went great guns during his Junior year, racking up five wins against a single setback, until he hurt his arm midway of the campaign.

In a terrific comeback during his final season with the Dons, Farace started out with a 1 to 0 test over Mt. St. Joseph's, allowing the Gaels but two bingles. When graduation time came, Dick had rocketed to the top with eight marks on his win log, and just two losses.

In recognition of his fine work, local sports writers voted the Loyola hillman to the Maryland Scholastic All-Star nine.

Viewing his 6'2" of height and 210 pounds of bulk, one should have little trouble guessing the favorite pitch of Farace. That's right, he likes to rear back and fog that steaming fast one right past the sticker.

Gerry Kimmitt

If you happen to be a spectator at Loyola track meets for the rest of this spring, you will be treated to an event which has been sadly lacking on the Greyhound agenda for many years—the pole vault.

Gerard Kimmitt, erstwhile City College vaulter, and, for the past two seasons, middle distance runner for Loyola College, will be Coach Bill McElroy's chief hope in an attempt to add points where they formerly had to automatically be forfeited for lack of a representative.

This 22-year-old track man has been plodding the cinder paths for the Evergreen squad for two campaigns, and last fall toured the hill and dale circuit with the cross country team.

Ran Cross Country

In 1947, Gerry was the top miler in Green and Gray silks, and turned in a yeoman performance. In six dual meets he breasted the tape once, and came through in the place position three times.

Though he is not a distance man, Gerry did fairly well for the Loyola cross country contingent during the fall. Twice he was the third man across the line, and in the other meets was close behind.

In 880 Sprint

Currently, the slightly built 135-pounder is devoting his energies to the 880-yard sprint races, in addition to soaring over the high cross-bar.

At City College Kimmitt became well versed in the art of propelling himself into the clouds on the end of a slender pole. It was there also, that he broke into the running game as a member of the mile relay quartet.

Netmen Win Two Matches

Unlike the baseball team, which lost a pair of heartbreakers on the same trip, Loyola's tennis varsity swept both ends of a week-end double-header against St. Joseph's and LaSalle of Philadelphia by scores of 7-1 and 6-3, respectively.

Frank Scrivener, Jerry Laroque, Jim Lacy and Gene Nolan won their singles matches in both outings, while Ed Ward was victorious in the St. Joe match.

Doubles Victories

Laroque and Lacy teamed for a pair of wins in doubles, as did Scrivener and Nolan, while Ward and Gene Monaghan were defeated in this department in the LaSalle match.

Lacy continued his unbeaten string through two years of collegiate competition by whipping his foes in quick order, 6-2, 6-1 at St. Joseph's, and 6-0, 6-0.

Binglers Clip Hopkins By 8-1

The College nine racked up their fourth Mason-Dixon victory at Evergreen last Thursday, defeating Johns Hopkins by an 8-1 score. Neill Cole allowed the visiting Blue Jays only four hits, while the Hounds were collecting nine. Mike Zedalis opened the scoring in the second inning, riding home from third on Ben Spurrier's single. Zedalis had previously tripled to deep left-center field.

The only trouble that Cole encountered during the afternoon came in the eighth inning when Hopkins combined two singles and a walk to push a run across the plate.

Varsity Loses To Penn State By 8-4, Faces Washington And Lee, Virginia U.

by Gerry McCormick

The varsity lacrosse team meets Washington and Lee this afternoon on the Generals' home field, and plays the University of Virginia away tomorrow.

The Greyhounds dropped a hard-fought battle to Penn State by a score of 8-4 at Evergreen last Friday afternoon for their third loss of the campaign against two wins. The defeat was costly, as John Mobler, crack Loyola defenseman, was injured while checking a Lion attacker in the first quarter.

From the start it was evident that Loyola was having a bad day as it showed only flashes of the high calibre lacrosse which it is capable of playing.

Nolan Stars For Winners

On the first play of the game, the visiting star Johnny Nolan scored the first of his four goals. An All-American football player, Nolan was too big and fast for the Hounds.

In the second quarter, Ed Hughes opened scoring for Loyola when he tallied on a pass from Frank Kimmel. Hughes scored again shortly after the third quarter opened when he caught the opposing goalie out of position.

Oaster Scores

One of the sparkling plays of the game occurred in the fourth quarter as Loyola utilized its fast break. Harvey Brooks picked up the ball deep in Hound territory and raced the length of the field. When he was trapped, he passed to Kimmel. Kimmel flipped the ball to the cutting Tom Oaster, who fired the sphere past the goalie for the score.

Loyola's final tally came when Bob Miller bounced a long shot into the net. Ray Wittelsberger played a standout game as usual, while Hughes used his speed to advantage, as he continues to lead the team in scoring. Other standouts were Kimmel and Oaster.

Staff Photo—Phillips

PENN STATE'S Jim Baer scores against Loyola to make the score, 4-0. Final score was 8-4.

Stickmen Trounce Lehigh, 15-0

Loyola's lacrosse squad turned in its most impressive performance in two years by conquering Lehigh University, 15-0, at Bethlehem, Pa.

The Hounds were attacking constantly throughout the game, and Skip Barry had little trouble at goalie for the winner as compared to the losers' Meyerhoff.

Jack Whalen, Frank Kimmel, Tom Oaster, Ed Miller and Harvey Brooks each scored two goals for the Greyhounds, while single goals were registered by Murray Seal, Ed Hughes, Bob Miller, Dick DeVilbiss and Bob DeLisle.

Carroll Pitches Team To Win

With Bill Carroll turning in a nifty pitching job, allowing only six hits while striking out eighteen batters, the varsity baseball nine etched its third Mason-Dixon win into the records by trouncing Washington College, 10-2, at Evergreen.

Jack Whalen, Skinny Simms and Ben Spurrier collected three hits each to set the pace of Loyola's 15 hits. Only four men were credited with putouts, Mike Zedalis getting credit for the 13 SO's, Don Semesky 5, and Whalen and Tom Lind two each.

Golfers Down Western Md.

Mason-Dixon Conference victory number four for the Loyola varsity golf squad was chalked up last week when Father Herlihy's linksmen stroked to a 8½-1½ decision over Western Maryland.

Jack Cronin, Nemo Haslbeck, Len Saltysiak, Bill Davis and Tom Gisriel were the winners, while Mel Beeler picked up a half-point on a halve.

The match was held at the Mount Pleasant course, where the Greyhounds have staged all their home meets. The course will be the scene of the Mason-Dixon Tournament, to be held next Tuesday afternoon.

Other tourneys in which the team will participate are the Western Maryland Invitation tourney at Westminster on May 15, and the Maryland Intercollegiate tourney on May 22.

Golf

Team Downs Jays, LaSalle

The Loyola golfers place their two year undefeated Mason-Dixon Conference record on the line when they tee off Tuesday, May 11, in the annual loop tournament. The tournament will be held this year at Mount Pleasant Golf Course.

Loyola 7, La Salle 2

Jack Cronin shot a par 72 to lead the Loyola golfers to a decisive victory over La Salle at White Marsh Country Club in Philadelphia. In this match Saltysiak, Cronin, Beeler, Gisriel and Anderson each defeated their man, while Haslbeck fell victim to Finnegan of La Salle.

Loyola 7, Hopkins 2

Playing in a down-pour rain the golfers defeated Johns Hopkins, 7-2, at Mount Pleasant.

Saltysiak, Gisriel and Anderson were the only men to win their matches. Cronin and Haslbeck halved their men, and Beeler lost to Patterson.

Loyola 6½, Washington Col. 2½

Again Jack Cronin captured medalist honors with a 7-6 win as Loyola defeated Washington College at Chestertown. Cronin, Saltysiak, Beeler, and Anderson won their matches, while Gisriel halved with his man and Haslbeck was defeated.

Parr Describes Bill Dyer As "Easygoing, Likable"

When radio announcer Bill Dyer comes up with his nightly facts and figures concerning the men who comprise our national sport, there's a Loyola College student sitting to his right busily utilizing his slide-rule to ascertain statistics.

His name is Mickey Parr, who in addition to being Assistant Sports Editor of THE GREYHOUND, is also official statistician for Bill Dyer during the 1948 season.

Mickey is happy about his position. "As more than a few people know, I have quite an ardent hope of carving a niche in the sports writing and announcing world after graduation," he said with a smile. "Working with Dyer is about the most pleasant and profitable way to start."

Checks Lineups

His duties include checking lineups before game-time and keeping track during the program of innumerable histories, records, and data on other games of the day. On any questionable play the assistant, among other things, has to get the official decision from the press box through visual signals.

Mickey went on to praise Dyer's "easygoing, likable personality."

Learns By Listening

"A world of practical knowledge can be picked up during any evening's broadcast from Dyer's veteran background and experience, just by being alert," he concluded.

When relief pitchers make their appearances as well as pinch hitters, Mickey has to have them tabbed with the essential data. All in all, it's an interesting occupation.

At least, you get a chance to see a lot of ball games—and for nothing, too. That's a boyhood dream come true.

Apt Adjective Wins Prize For NDM Girl

"Supermalgorious" was the name applied to the Naval Academy by Miss Patricia Wohlgenuth who has been declared winner of the contest sponsored by Evergreen Scenes entitled "What Annapolis Means To Me." Miss Wohlgenuth, a student of Notre Dame of Maryland, was the only young lady who sent the three tarnished brass buttons, presumably taken from the uniform of a Middie.

The self-portrait of Tecumseh dating a Mt. St. Agnes girl, which Miss Wohlgenuth also sent, was a bit on the surrealistic. However the judges did not disqualify her on that count.

For her prize, Miss Wohlgenuth will receive two tickets to a West Point Tea Dance.

History Academy, I.R.C. Team To Sponsor Combined Banquet

The History Academy and the I.R.C. held a combined banquet at the Stafford Hotel on Thursday evening, April 22. Thirty members were in attendance and Mr. Sidney Shapero, president of both activities, acted as toastmaster and introduced the speakers.

The Rev. Gustave Weigel, S.J., expert on South America, was the main speaker. He delivered a fifty minute address on Chile. The Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S.J., Dean of Loyola, also gave a short address to the assembled members.

Roast Beef Dinner

The banquet was arranged and planned by Dr. William D. Hoyt, Jr., and Mr. Harry W. Kirwin, professors of History and respective moderators of the History Academy and the I.R.C. Following the banquet which featured a roast beef dinner, a mass singing session was held with Mr. Kirwin holding forth on the piano.
